'Arms Rationing To New African Nations Studied

West Reported Planning To Submit Idea To Khrush At Summit Meeting

LONDON (AP) — The Western Big Three Sunday were reported planning to invite the Soviet Union to join in rationing the supply of arms to Africa's new nations.

Diplomatic authorities said if Premier Nikita Khrushchev accepts the idea at the summit meeting in Paris next month, the Big Four will jointly seek the cooperation of the African countries.

Success of any such pilot scheme in East-West arms limitation could clear the way for similar action in the Middle East and elsewhere, informants said.

Behind the Allied approach is a fear that turbulent Africa could become a dangerous new setting for the old cold war. By the end of this year, two-thirds of the continent's 230 million people will be running their own affairs for the first time.

Chessman's Lawyer Says He 'Framed'

State Deliberately Rigged Testimony, Attorney Contends

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Convict-author Caryl Chessman's last bid for life will be based on a charge that the state of California deliberately framed him through the use of perjury, his attorney said Sunday.

Attorney George T. Davis said he now has evidence to prove that Chessman was not the "red light bandit." He said he will ask the state Supreme Court Monday for a writ of habeas corpus for Chessman, whose execution is scheduled for May 2.

"The evidence which I now have establishes the deliberate and knowing use of perjury to get a conviction in the Chessman case," Davis said.

He said the new evidence also proves "the suppression of material evidence proving Chessman's innocence." The suppression was carried out by "agents of the state of California," the attorney said.

Davis said the prosecution in Chessman's 1948 trial for a series of crimes in Los Angeles involving robbery, kidnap and sex perversion knew the real red light bandit but deliberately rigged testimony to convict Chessman.

The real red light bandit, Davis charged, is still alive and is known to Los Angeles and California officials.

"They know who he is, what he is and where he is," Davis said. "And so do we. Except we don't know where." He said he would not disclose anything about the man except that he had a criminal record, as did Chessman when he was picked up for the crimes on which he got the death sentence.

Chessman, during the trial, at which he was his own attorney, and throughout his 12 years on San Quentin's death row, has claimed innocence. In a lengthy letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown the night before his last execution date, Feb. 19, he pleaded for a stay of execution to give time to gather further proof.

They Plan To Marry

David Gishler, 25, points to a sign in the lobby of Detroit's City-County building where he and his bride-to-be, Julia Morgan, 64, went to apply for a marriage license. Gishler and Mrs. Morgan met in a cafe where she plays the piano. She has been married twice, has a son 42, a daughter 44, eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren. Gishler makes $40 a week as a truck loader. Julia proposed, she said, because it is leap year. (AP Photofax)

Two Of Navy's 'Blue Angels' Killed In Crash

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Two members of the Navy precision flying team, the Blue Angels, were killed in the crash of a F9F jet fighter plane here Sunday.

The plane tore into a utility pole then plunged to the ground where it burned about half a mile from Peterson Field where it had taken off a minute earlier.

Names of the victims were not made public pending notification of next of kin.

The plane was one of a group of five exhibition planes and a fuel plane which landed here Saturday.

The Blue Angels are based in Pensacola, Fla.

Jackson Calls Defense Shift 'Late And Little'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson rapped President Eisenhower's new defense shakeup as "late and little" Sunday and predicted Congress will vote more funds for an airborne alert and other "essential" military needs.

The Washington Democrat, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, issued the forecast as Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. hinted in a Philadelphia speech that Eisenhower may be planning further defense changes.

Gates said this country is the world's strongest power but that rapid weapons advances require defense planning changes. He said there could be "other changes" like the President's decision last week to put more stress on missiles, satellites and polaris submarines.

Jackson, an outspoken administration critic in the military field, conceded in a radio interview (Mutual — Reporters' Roundup) that Eisenhower's actions were a step in the right direction. He called it "little more than a token effort," however, and said "it's late and little."

The defense reshuffle calls for more Atlas missiles, a speed-up in the satellite warning system and a head start on construction of six more Polaris subs. The cost would be financed by cutting back the Bomarc and Sage systems for defending against enemy bombers and by eliminating two attack submarines.

Store Boycotts Set By Negroes

By United Press International

Southern Negroes start their Easter week boycott of stores with segregation policies Monday despite threats of economic reprisals that could cost them their jobs.

The most concentrated effort will be at Jackson, Miss., where leaders predict 70 per cent of that deep South city's 61,000 Negroes will give up their usual Easter livery in protest against segregation.

Similar boycotts have been announced in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

But whites in Jackson, a city of 150,000 total population, have warned they will strike back at Negro boycotters. The pro-segregation white citizen's council called the use of economics in the racial struggle "a two-way street" and conservative Negroes feared wholesale firings.

Some sort of action is expected at Petersburg, Va., Monday—the deadline set by a Negro group in demands for seven stores to desegregate their lunch counters. The threats, included in letters to store managers, didn't say whether the Negroes planned to use pickets or boycotts.

Mikoyan Sees Russia No. 1 Producer By 1970

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan predicted Sunday the Soviet Union will surpass the United States in industrial and consumer goods production by 1970.

The visiting trade expert of the Kremlin spoke at the opening of a Soviet industrial and technical exhibition. Officials estimated nearly 500,000 Iraqis were in the exhibition grounds.

President Will Fly To Georgia Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will definitely leave Monday for a golfing vacation at the Augusta, Ga., National Golf Club, the White House said Sunday.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower were expected to leave by plane at about 10 a.m. e.s.t. They will remain in Augusta for about a week or 10 days.

The President may fly back to Washington to throw out the traditional first ball at the opening of the American League baseball season April 18 between the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

It was not known whether the Chief Executive would return to Augusta after the game.

Demos Set Up Peace Economy Planning Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic Advisory Committee Sunday named a committee of seven scientists and economists to plan now for the transition from a defense to a peaceful economy in event of world disarmament.

The group declared its belief that peace is attainable and noted several encouraging signs. It said its first effort will be to recommend an orderly shifting of spending of many billions of dollars annually from defense to production for use.

Neither the Massachusetts senator nor Nixon has major opposition in the May 3 balloting. Each is assured of the state's national convention votes—34 Democratic, 32 Republican—on the first ballot only.

Nixon so far plans no pre-emptory appearances in the state. Kennedy has made several and is scheduled for another Indiana swing April 29.

Republican leaders generally say privately that Kennedy probably will pile up a bigger vote than Nixon. But they say it will be due to more interest-drawing contests for other nominations on the Democratic side than the GOP has this year.

Kennedy's Vigorous Campaign Rates Him Edge In Indiana Test

Nixon 'Underdog' In May 3 Trial Run

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy's vigorous campaigning for the Indiana primary has given him an apparent edge in a vote-pulling trial run against Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Neither the Massachusetts senator nor Nixon has major opposition in the May 3 balloting. Each is assured of the state's national convention votes—34 Democratic, 32 Republican—on the first ballot only.

Nixon so far plans no pre-emptory appearances in the state. Kennedy has made several and is scheduled for another Indiana swing April 29.

Italian Premier Facing Crisis

ROME (AP)—Another of Premier Fernando Tambroni's ministers announced his resignation Sunday in a growing Christian Democratic party crisis over decisive support given Tambroni by Fascist deputies.

But the Premier appeared determined to keep his all-Christian Democrat government in office as long as possible.

Florentino Sullo, minister of transport, made public a letter saying he could not participate in a government based on Fascist backing.

Giulio Pastore resigned as minister for southern Italy Friday after Tambroni won endorsement in the Chamber of Deputies. The confidence vote was 300-293, with 24 Fascist votes providing the margin.

Pope Blesses Palms In Basilica Service

ROME (AP)—Pope John XXIII was applauded by thousands of tourists Sunday as he took part in Palm Sunday service in the Basilica of St. Paul outside the walls.

The pontiff, who went by car from the Vatican to the basilica on the outskirts of Rome, was joined in the service by 22 cardinals.

Throngs of tourists in Rome for Easter hailed the Pope as he was carried on his portable throne through the basilica to a throne placed beside the altar. There he blessed the palms which had been prepared for distribution to those attending the service.

Car Plunge In Creek Drowns 5 Children

HENDERSON, Ky. (UPI) — Five youngsters were drowned Sunday when their automobile ran off the road into a flood-swollen creek near here.

Charles Walker, 16, driver of the vehicle, swam out an open window and escaped.

His brother and sister and his first cousins were trapped in the car. They were identified as Norma, 13, and Ronald Walker, 10; Betty Powell, 16; Charles, 13; and Kenneth Powell, 10.

GOP Leaders At Odds On Rights Bill Effects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate passage of the civil rights bill left in its wake different ideas about its political repercussions in this year's elections.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), a leader of the Northern group that favored a more sweeping civil rights bill, said Sunday "I don't think it is anything that Republicans can run on."

This was in contrast to a statement by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois that Republicans will "point with pride" to the bill in the coming election campaign.

With two major exceptions, the measure embodies in somewhat revised form all of the civil rights proposals urged by President Eisenhower.

It now has been sent back to the House for action on Senate amendments. Its chief provision is designed to enforce Negro voting rights through the machinery of the federal courts.

Actor-Friend Of Flynn's Last Flame Kills Himself

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — William Stanciu, an aspiring actor who tried to follow in the late Errol Flynn's footsteps, died Sunday — about 24 hours after he shot himself in front of Beverly Aadland, Flynn's last flame.

Beverly, a 17-year-old night club entertainer, told police Stanciu, 21, forced his way into her apartment at gunpoint and raped her early Saturday. She said he threatened to kill her, then sobbed: "I love you too much... I can't kill you!" and shot himself in the head.

Her story was bitterly denied by the dead youth's brother, Kenneth, 22, another would-be actor whose professional name is Shawn Tanner.

He told The Associated Press: "Why would Billy want to rape her? He and Beverly have been going together every night for six weeks. Everybody in town knows that."

Miss Aadland, who has been taken to Juvenile Hall, told authorities Stanciu asked to marry her and that she refused.

"He told me that I had ruined his life — that he loved me, but I didn't love him, and he was going to kill me," Beverly sobbed.

"That's a pack of lies," Kenneth asserted. "Beverly asked Billy to marry her a few weeks ago."

"My brother didn't run after her. He was a body-builder, a good-looking guy who had all the girls he wanted."

He said he was certain that his brother didn't shoot himself because: "He wasn't that kind of a guy. He had everything to live for. Today was his 21st birthday."

"Tonight he was going to give Beverly a going-away party in a house he'd rented in the Hollywood hills."

West Europe Press Fears Catastrophe

LONDON (AP)—The shots that felled Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd echoed across Western Europe Sunday, raising fears of an imminent catastrophe in South Africa. There were demands for international intervention.

Pictures of the wounded South Africa Prime Minister holding his hands to his bloody face dominated newspaper front pages on the Continent.

Editorials said the attempted assassination had deepened the gravity of an already tense situation in South Africa, where Negroes have been defying white supremacy laws.

Many newspapers made much of the fact a white man fired the bullets, implying there is rising unrest among European elements in South Africa.

The story of the shooting was told under black headlines, many unsympathetic to Verwoerd.

"The shot against the tyrant," said the liberal Dagens Nyheter, Sweden's biggest morning paper.

A demand that U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld fly to South Africa was voiced in the West Berlin Newspaper Telegraf, which often reflects Socialist views.

Arraignment Of Assailant Slated Today

Shooting Deepens South Africa Crisis; 300 Negroes Seized

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Officials were reported Sunday preparing a quick and possibly secret arraignment of the white farmer who shot down Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd in an assassination attempt.

As the plans went forward the Cabinet prepared to meet Monday to discuss South Africa's deepening racial crisis and the situation arising from the shooting.

The 58-year-old Verwoerd, unbending champion of white supremacy and racial segregation, was brushed from the helm of the nation's affairs Saturday as South Africa faced its most fearsome challenge from 10 million Negroes.

With two small-caliber bullets still in his head, Verwoerd was still well enough Sunday to be removed from Johannesburg to a Pretoria hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition. Doctors said he was resting well and there was no need for an immediate operation to remove the bullets.

Negro Settlement Raided

As the ambulance sped the wounded Prime Minister to Pretoria, 600 police and 1,000 troops moved into the troubled Negro settlement of Cato Manor, outside the east coast city of Durban, and made a shack-to-shack search.

They arrested more than 300 Africans, holding 143 of them, and seized a truckload of spears, knives, axes and seven sticks of dynamite.

The eight-hour raid, beginning at dawn, was one of the largest ever carried out in Natal province.

The settlement is a hotbed of resistance to Verwoerd's white supremacy laws.

Elsewhere, a small church went up in flames near Port Elizabeth, on the southeast coast.

Informed sources said David Pratt, the wealthy 52-year-old man who fired the two bullets into Verwoerd's head at the Johannesburg agricultural exposition, will be arraigned before a magistrate Monday in some small town to avoid the violence that might erupt in a large city.

Visited By Daughter

He was examined by medical experts Sunday and was visited at the Marshall Square jail in Johannesburg by his daughter by first marriage.

A friend said Pratt "hates Nationalists and Verwoerd is Nationalist No. 1."

The daughter said her father was "perfectly contented" and not upset by his situation."

The assailant and his second wife are estranged and he has been seeking a reconciliation, informants said. She is in Holland.

A friend said Pratt had been having psychological troubles. The operator of a large farm 30 miles outside Johannesburg, Pratt also has been interested in a Johannesburg candy factory and was well-known in local society.

He has largely withdrawn from management of the candy factory which last Christmas made large donations for the poor. Police said he came to South Africa from England when he was 4 years old.

He was nattily dressed in green sports jacket and slacks when he made his way to Verwoerd's box at the farm fair, spoke the Prime Minister's name softly and then began shooting.

Morse Will Press Medical Aid Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) said Sunday he will try to tie federal medical aid for the aged onto the first House appropriations bill that comes over to the Senate.

Morse said the chances are slim that Congress will pass such legislation this year but he declared "I'm going to do the best I can to get it passed."

He said his bill will be similar to one introduced in the House by Rep. Alma J. Forand (D-R.I.), which has been blocked by a House Ways and Means Committee. That measure would incorporate a medical care program for retired persons into the Social Security setup, and raise Social Security taxes to pay for it.

The administration has made clear it is opposed to raising the Social Security tax to pay for the aid and wants a strictly voluntary system based on private health insurance.

Waterman, 45, Missing After Boat Capsizes

NANTICOKE, Md. (AP)—A 45-year-old waterman was reported missing and presumed to have drowned after his boat capsized on the wind-churned Wicomico River, state police reported Sunday.

His companion, found on a marsh Sunday morning nearly 19 hours after the accident, was admitted to a hospital for treatment of shock and exposure.

Police identified the missing man as Norris Phillips of Hebron, Md.

They said he and Isaac Moore, 52, also of Hebron, went out in their boat Saturday to set fish nets in the river near this Eastern Shore community 16 miles southwest of Salisbury.

At the mouth of Muddy Creek, the boat overturned, plunging the men into the river.

Moore swam ashore and spent the night on a marsh as temperatures dipped to within six degrees of freezing. He was picked up by Joseph Giordano, a fellow boatman from Hebron, at about 11 a.m. Sunday and was taken to Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury.

Throughout Sunday, state police, volunteers and Tidewater Fisheries Commission personnel searched the nearby water and marshes for Phillips without success.

Dragging operations were conducted by police and TFC crews.

The boat in which the two men set out was found at 10:45 a.m. about 10 miles downstream off Mt. Vernon, in Somerset County.

The Phillips boat was the second reported missing in Wicomico County this weekend. Police said the other vessel, also occupied by two fishermen, was put ashore Saturday night and its occupants were reported safe.

13-Year-Old Boy Dies When Raft Capsizes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Eugene Clemons, 13, drowned in the Patuxent River off Harbor Field Saturday when his homemade raft capsized in rough water.

The youth from suburban Dundalk was fishing when the raft fell apart. Skin divers from the Edgemere Moose Rescue Squad found the body about four hours later, 75 feet from shore.

Butler Urges Cutback In Foreign Aid Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) said Sunday that a continuation of what he called excessive foreign aid spending would lead to national bankruptcy.

And, Butler said in a weekly letter to constituents, it would lead to "a deserved charge that America is trying to buy her way into the hearts of the people of the world."

He backed up a plea by chairman Otto Passman (D-La.) of a House Appropriations Subcommittee, for support of that group's plans to make sharp cuts in President Eisenhower's $4.175 billion mutual security program.

"The enormity of the task before this committee and the Congress is represented by the total foreign aid cost which, including interest on what we have borrowed to give away, now exceeds 10 billion dollars annually," Butler said.

"This astronomical sum includes $4,800,000,000 from last year which have not yet been spent."

He said the money is divided among 22 different countries, with supporters "determined to propagate their project and their jobs."

"This is not to say that all mutual assistance is bad," the senator added, but the Marshall Plan was conceived as a temporary 15-billion-dollar program and "it is still with us as the mutual assistance program, 84 billion dollars later."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hagerstown, Md., High School won the grand prize for bands in Saturday night's Cherry Blossom Festival parade while Georgia was first in the state floats competition and Ohio in the general floats.

The Defiance College (Ohio) choir float was judged the best in the general floats, followed by the Jaycees of Washington and the George Washington Boyhood Home entry from Fredericksburg, Va.

Among officially designated state bands, Northwestern Senior High School of Hyattsville, Md., was first.

South Hagerstown, Md., was first among non-state bands with Seneca, S.C. second and Suitland High of Prince George's County, Md., third.

Northwestern State College of Louisiana was judged best of the parade marching units. Gettysburg (Pa.) College ROTC was second and the Howard University (Washington) Air Force ROTC third.

In the drum majorettes competition, the Precisionettes of Wheaton, Md., High were first, the Walters Virginians of Falls Church, Va., second and the Twirlettes of the Warner School of the Dapce, Washington, third.

Reps. Garmatz, Friedel Given Labor Support

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two incumbent congressmen and two candidates for a seat in Washington have been endorsed by the Maryland-D.C. AFL-CIO Political Education Committee.

The committee Saturday announced it was backing Reps. Garmatz in the Third District and Friedel in the Seventh. Francis X. Dippel, running for the Democratic nomination against George Fallon in the Fourth, and Mrs. Sarah McNicol Bendann in the Seventh also got the labor group's blessing.

W. F. Strong, president of the statewide AFL-CIO, explained Mrs. Bendann was endorsed in the Seventh along with Friedel, a Democrat, "for the benefit of those members voting in the Republican primary."

Strong said she has expressed sympathy for the aims of organized labor.

The committee took no stand on candidates in the First, Second, Fifth and Sixth districts. But it is possible that Rep. Foley, in the Sixth, will get the group's backing if some wounds can be healed.

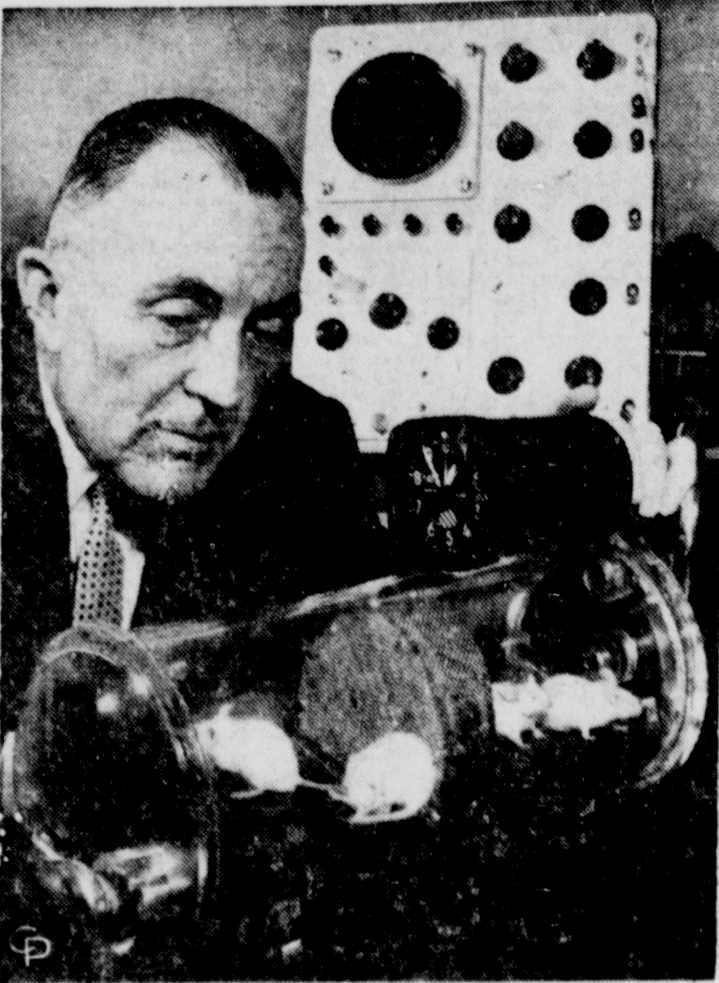

At Saturday's meeting, the Western Maryland Labor Council, with headquarters in Cumberland, complained that the freshman congressman "has not openly enough" sought the council's endorsement.

Strong said a meeting had been arranged to try to heal the breach. Foley is expected to meet with members of the Central Maryland Labor Council at Hagerstown and the Washington Council.

The AFL-CIO committee refused to support three incumbent Democrats — Reps. Johnson (First), Brewster (Second) and Lankford (Fifth) because they voted for the Landrum-Griffin labor reform bill last year.

Nearly As Busy As A Candidate

For a man who said he is not seeking the Democratic Presidential nomination and who doubted that he would get it, Adlai E. Stevenson keeps almost as busy in the public eye as some of his non-opponents, the avowed candidates. Tomorrow, just a week after his return from a tour of 12 Latin American nations, he makes a major address at the University of Virginia.

The appearance is in response to an invitation issued last September and the speech is labeled non-political. Nevertheless, it would be only natural for anyone just returned from an extensive journey abroad to touch on foreign policy, and foreign policy is Stevenson's political forte. Indeed it is in foreign affairs that Stevenson in the past has created his most successful public image, and he is widely conceded a good chance to be the next Democratic Secretary of State—if he's right about not being the Presidential nominee.

On April 22, ten days after the Virginia speech, Stevenson addresses the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, in response to an invitation dating back to December. A talk at the Northwestern University Law School Centennial, May 13, was arranged over a year ago. Stevenson, in addition to these addresses, is supposed to make five or six frankly political speeches prior to the Democratic convention in July. These will do his unannounced candidacy virtually all the good of participation in state primaries without the danger of state primaries. For Stevenson, a two-time loser, the dancer of a single trial heat defeat would be catastrophic. Moreover, Stevenson thinks of the Presidential primary as an "almost useless institution."

Also, Stevenson has been a world traveler. And he has chosen among his invitations to speak—he's said to accept something in the nature of one out of a hundred—those which are shrewdly figured to provide the best forums, as well as the best press coverage.

These Days

Smith And McCarthy

The images of Al Smith and Joe McCarthy rise to plague candidates for the Presidency in the 1960 campaign. Al Smith is recalled because of the Church and State issue in the 1928 campaign; Joe McCarthy, because Richard Nixon achieved his early fame as a protagonist of anti-Communism before Joe McCarthy seized that stage.

Al Smith was a simple man of the people who emerged from lowly environs to become a distinct personality, a Governor of the State of New York and a Democratic candidate for President. He was in many respects a remarkable man, utterly independent, devotedly religious, unrelentingly patriotic.

It is difficult to say that, in 1928, Smith might have been elected President were he not a Roman Catholic. The country was going through a heightened boom; the stock market was running wild; everybody was rich. The Harding and Coolidge Administrations permitted the economy of the country to give the feeling of unbelievable prosperity whereas, in fact, we were suffering from a runaway inflation. Herbert Hoover had built an enormous reputation as a man of wisdom and probity, a successful engineer, a world food administrator, the first really significant Secretary of Commerce this country had ever had.

However, certain facts stand out. When it was sure that Al Smith would be the Democratic candidate, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South called a conference at Asheville, North Carolina, to organize the anti-Smith Democrats. To be elected, Governor Smith had to carry the South. Involved in this campaign was not only Smith's Catholicism but the Prohibition issue. Bishop Cannon was aggressively pro-Prohibition; Al Smith was anti-Prohibition. The Methodist Church had taken the lead in banning intoxicating liquor.

It was during the Al Smith campaign that the Ku Klux Klan again became politically active. The Klan was started in 1866 as a movement to rescue the South from carpetbaggers and Negroes. Originally, it included all Southerners, Jews, too, if they wished to belong.

When it was revived in 1921 in Atlanta, Georgia, its program was decidedly anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic.

As early as the 1924 Democratic Convention, the Democrats faced the problem of the Klan, the greatest strength of which was in the South. The Democrats had to have the Solid South to win. The supporters of William Gibbs McAdoo for President were unwilling to have the Klan denounced and it was not denounced. The compromise candidate, John W. Davis, spoke out against the Klan.

Governor Smith did not take his failure in 1924 lying down. He got into a debate in the "Atlantic Monthly," in April 1928, with Charles Clinton Marshall, an Episcopalian lawyer, on the basic question of a religious test for a President. It was this debate which enhanced Al Smith's stature for courage and intellectual acumen.

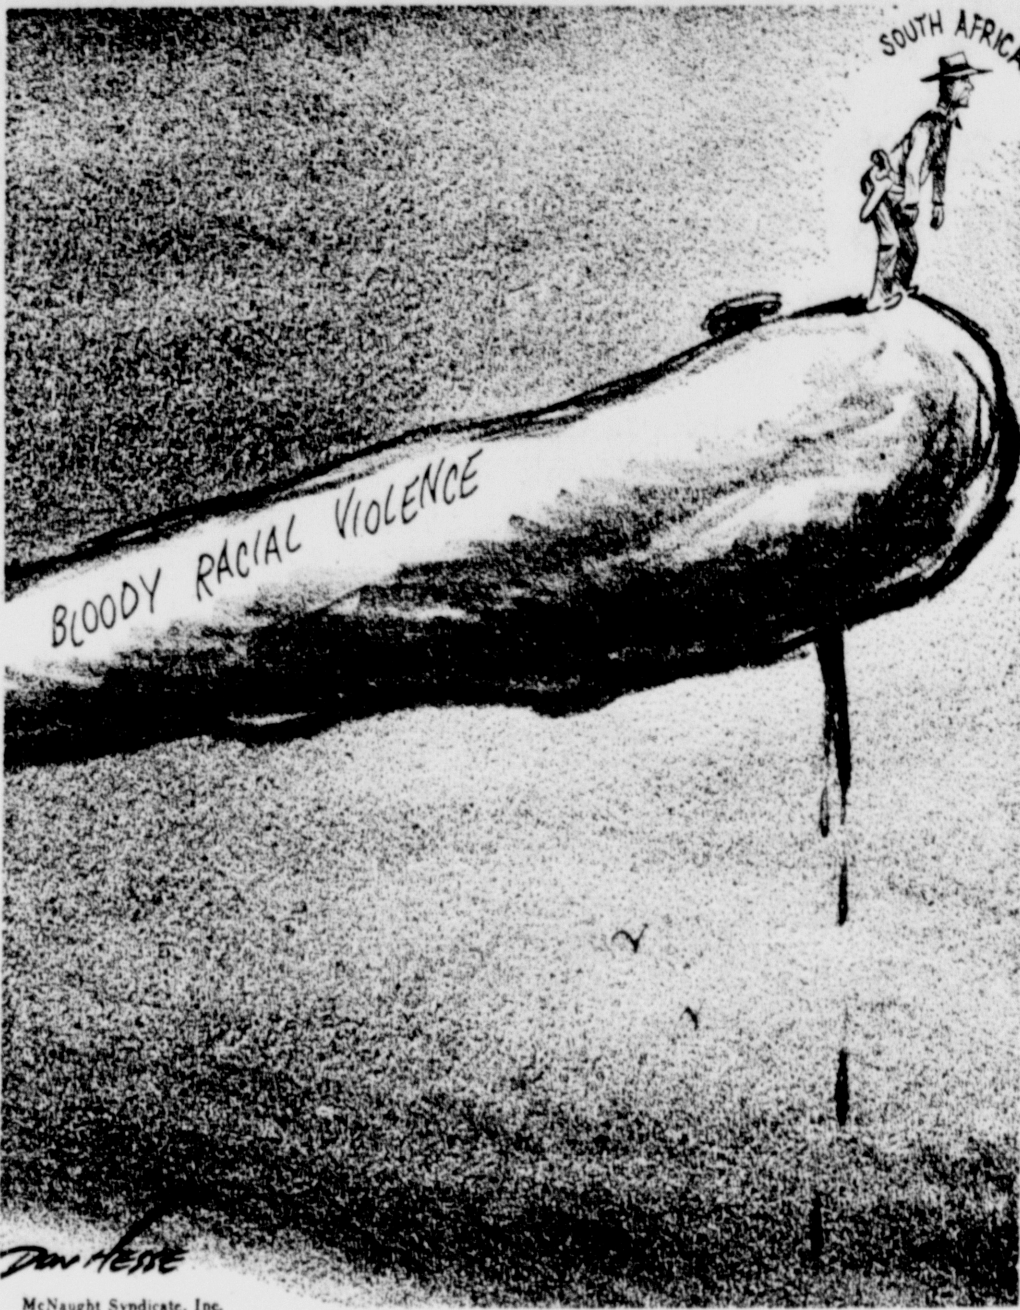

Smith was violently fought not only on the religious issue but also by the Anti-Saloon League on the Prohibition issue. The Catholic Church, carefully and deliberately, stayed out of the fight. It is also to be noted that no matter how intense this quarrel became, there is no recorded notice of bloodshed.

Since 1928, this issue of a Presidential test has been dormant not dead. Various anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish organizations exist to oppose American individuals of Jewish or Catholic persuasion. On the other hand, a number of "defense" organizations have come into existence to fight back against any form of discrimination. There are also Negro defense organizations.

The McCarthy issue is being dragged into this campaign by some supporters of Richard Nixon who fear that he may be regarded as too severely anti-Communist. In addition to the McCarthy issue, some of the Democratic liberals are dragging into this campaign the Helen Gahagan Douglas campaign, when she ran for United States Senator in California and was defeated by Nixon. Liberals think that they can make something of the Nixon-Douglas campaign. In fact, a play is being shown in New York in which Helen Gahagan Douglas's husband, Melvyn Douglas, stars, which is designed to do Nixon as much harm as a play on Broadway can do.

Much of the data in this article has been checked in an extremely valuable history entitled "Church and State in the United States," by Anson Phelps Stokes, formerly Secretary of Yale University.

Now Where?

'Civil Rights' And Invasion Of Private Rights

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Do the various candidates who aspire to the Presidency really practice what they preach?

This is a question raised by a reader who feels that, since free speech is being rather broadly interpreted nowadays by the Supreme Court to include the distribution of anonymous handbills, a citizen has the right to direct a few anonymous queries to the candidates. From a read in a city in Michigan come these three questions:

"Do the children of the candidates invite playmates into their homes regardless of race, creed or color?"

"Do these candidates entertain Negroes in their homes at the same time and on the same level as their white friends?"

"In other words, do they practice what they preach?"

The letter then goes on to discuss the background against which the questions are asked:

"I want to be sure that my vote will not help put a man in office who is secretly dedicated to wrecking my way of life. I resent anyone trying to tell me the person or persons I should associate with just because the courts say he is my social equal. I have always been the judge of that, and I want to go on being the judge of it. I cannot vote for anyone who says I am not."

"I am enclosing an article from one of our newspapers which points up what 'civil rights' have brought to us in Michigan. I refer to the case against some motel owners who have been declared by the office of the state attorney general to be 'in violation' of the state's 'civil rights' statutes. Under this ruling, the State Tourists Council has notified the West Michigan Tourists and Resort Association that it will not distribute the booklets of that association or its annual guide if they carry the listing of the persons who are accused of violating the statutes."

The clipping, which was from an article in the Grand Rapids "Press" says:

"This has amounted to making the West Michigan association the punitive 'club' to carry out the ruling of the attorney general."

"Members of the executive committee of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association feel very strongly that it is American principle that no person may be deemed guilty without his day in court. This the defendants have not had. No complainant to the attorney general's office has brought suit, and the attorney general's office has arbitrarily declared them to be 'in violation' without a court hearing of any kind."

The Michigan reader's letter continues:

"My understanding is that the only 'crime' these people committed was circulating calendars with a Negro's picture on them, the same having been ordered before the state's 'civil rights' bill was passed."

"We, too, own a motel, and according to our 'civil rights' laws, if a Negro comes in and we are full up and cannot give him a room, he can go away and report us as having refused him. We can then be held 'in violation', without any complaint being lodged against us or without our even knowing that we have been reported. We would have no opportunity to present

AIR INSURANCE—The recent rash of airline accidents, including one verified and other suspected cases of destruction-by-explosion, has airlines and the plane-riding public in a dither.

What is generally overlooked in all the front-page stories is that nobody has ever collected one red cent by blowing up an airplane. In each case payments have been withheld from the beneficiaries pending investigations.

A spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association stressed this fact in the course of a discussion on the pilots' views on the new suicide-bent hazard of flying.

Some individuals have advocated doing away with the machines at airports which sell insurance automatically, in order to have a better check on persons buying inordinately large amounts of insurance just before flight time.

It has been pointed out that a clerk handling such sales could report suspiciously large insurance purchases to airport officials, who in turn could inspect the baggage and the individual making the purchases before flight time.

Another suggestion is to make it mandatory for manufacturers of all explosives to include a small quantity of radioactive material in their products, so that they could be detected by Geiger counters at airport baggage examination sections.

The pilots' spokesman favors the latter course. He agrees that it would not solve all the problems of a suicide-bent maniac, but it would make it extremely difficult for anyone to carry out such a plan.

As to limiting the sales of insurance by vending machines, he is inclined to doubt that this would do much good. He points out that individuals could still manage to buy sizable chunks of insurance over a period of time and remain undetected.

Rest And Relaxation Lower Blood Pressure

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Dr. H. M. Marvin of Yale tells a story in "Your Heart," a handbook for laymen, that demonstrates the value of rest and relaxation for persons with high blood pressure. A pharmaceutical company asked him to test a promising new high blood pressure remedy.

Dr. Marvin accepted the offer, provided he could make the test at the New Haven hospital, under his own rigid rules. He selected 30 clinic patients who had shown pressures of 200 or more at every visit over the previous five years. There was no doubt about the diagnosis and he figured that if anything could lower blood pressure, it certainly would do so in these patients.

The volunteers were to spend an hour or so a week lying quietly in bed while a physician took their pressure at five to 10 minute intervals. All were instructed to bring books, magazines, knitting, crossword puzzles, or anything else along this line for self-entertainment. There was to be no conversation between patients during the time the blood pressures were being taken.

The patients were given the medicine and told to report to the hospital once a week. Before the end of the first hour of rest, more than half of the group had normal readings. At the end of the second hour, one week later, only eight of the original 30 had hypertension. Their blood pressure was up when they came in, showing that the medication was not responsible for the decrease. The pressure was normal after an hour of rest, demonstrating that relaxation did the trick.

Previously, at the clinic, these hypertensives had not rested for an hour in silence. While waiting in the reception room they usually discussed their symptoms, family troubles, or financial difficulties.

These people—like so many others—have high blood pressure only when under tension. At other times it is normal. This stresses the importance of rest and relaxation. After all, the blood pressure is affected by various factors, including anxiety, apprehension, fear, physical discomfort, heavy meals, smoking, maladjustment, and worry.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on hypertension if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Ike, Flemming Differed On Plan For Health Insurance For Aged

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The cleavage between President Eisenhower and his chief Cabinet officer on health benefits for the aged was brought sharply into focus during a recent closed-door grilling of Health Secretary Arthur Flemming by the Ways and Means Committee.

The congressmen knew that Secretary Flemming had favored a liberal plan of Federal aid to women over 62 and men over 65 in need of hospital care. In fact they had understood he was privately for the Forand bill, which the American Medical Association has labeled "socialized medicine."

They also knew that President Eisenhower had emphatically opposed the Forand bill. Finally they knew that after various White House huddles, Ike had instructed Flemming to draft a "voluntary" health program for the aged which would be handled by the big insurance companies.

But they couldn't get the embarrassed Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare to elaborate on the differences between himself and the President.

"Isn't this so-called voluntary program that the Eisenhower administration favors really a subsidy for private insurance firms?" asked Rep. Aime Forand of Rhode Island, author of the aid-to-aged bill. "I would like a 'yes' or 'no' answer Mr. Secretary."

Flemming hemmed and hawed, finally agreed with Forand's conclusion.

Loyal To Ike

"Not long ago I heard you make a very convincing speech to a group of social workers, in which you stated that the problem of medical care for the aged could no longer be delayed, that it couldn't in your own words, 'be swept under the carpet.'" Democrat Thad Machrowicz of Michigan reminded Flemming.

"I agree with you but would like to know if you have a program and if so, what it is? I mean a program of your own."

Flemming replied that as a member of the President's Cabinet, he would follow the wishes of the President in devising a program.

"That still doesn't answer the question to my satisfaction," broke in Democrat William Green of Philadelphia. "Isn't it fair to assume that, as Secretary of Health, you do have a program of your own? Isn't it also fair to assume that you presented that program to the White House?"

Secretary Flemming did not answer.

"What happened at the White House meeting?" pressed Green. "We have heard reports that you advocated some form of the Forand approach to helping the aged. Is that true? If not, what program did you advocate at the White House?"

"As you know," Congressman Green, what transpires at White House meetings is a matter of executive privilege," replied Flemming. "I am not at liberty to talk about it."

Tying The Cat's Tail

"Well, you have said that there is a great deal of urgency about this problem, but how can Congress act on it unless we are accurately advised of your views, as Secretary of Health, not the views of others?" persisted Green at the closed-door session. "Of all Cabinet officers, you have the chief responsibility in dealing with this question."

"I always live up to my responsibilities," countered Flemming.

"We all have responsibilities," said Green. "I run for office every two years and if I didn't comply with my responsibilities to the people, my constituents, I our side. The penalty is a $10,000 fine or one year in jail, or both. So, you see, we have no 'civil rights.'"

"As you will note, the court has been asked to allow any interested parties to intervene, but I am sure none will. Public opinion is so much against us that no one dares raise his voice. I must ask you, if you should see fit to use any part of this letter or the clipping, not to make my name public. It could ruin our business. We could be picketed or have a sit-down demonstration, and we would have no redress."

"We've always held our standards high in our motel. Yet now Negroes come in and they sit outside and shout back and forth, play ball or do anything to attract attention, while white people drive past without stopping, and then our motel stands half empty. So, you see, the problem is economic as well as social. Again I ask where are our 'civil rights'?"

"We are elderly people. We have put our life's savings in this motel. If we lose it because of racial trouble, we are too old to start over."

The foregoing is similar to many other letters that have been received in which people express the opinion that social customs are private customs and that every business should have the right to select its own customers. Former President Harry Truman, commenting on the "sit-in" demonstrations, has publicly stated that "if someone came into my store and tried to stop business, I'd throw him out." Boycotts have been undertaken as a means of intimidating individuals who believe they have a right to run their own business.

The problem is not confined to the South. Mail received by this correspondent indicates that there are plenty of instances in Northern cities where the "civil rights" issue now has become an agitation for the invasion of private rights.

wouldn't be re-elected."

"I object to this line of interrogation," broke in Republican Noah Mason of Illinois. "The Secretary already has answered the gentleman's question."

"He hasn't answered as far as I am concerned," shot back Green. "I would like to find out whether the administration is supporting the Secretary's position or the Secretary is supporting the administration's position. I'm just trying to tie the can to the cat's tail, that's all."

Republican Tom Curtis of Missouri finally took Flemming off the hook, much to his relief, by injecting a point of order.

Castro has done good, despite it all. The Bahamas government Nassau reports the greatest tourist season in history. Castro's advertising has sold a lot of people on going to the Caribbean. But all of the business which formerly went to Havana, now is going to the Bahamas. Naturally, the Bahamians "love" Castro... Russia will participate in 38 film festivals this year—as far away as New Zealand, Karachi, Pakistan, Canada, Spain, Ireland, and Yugoslavia. The United States will participate in only a few. Reason: the budget... Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters is organizing another national basketball league to include Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington... U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge's speech condemning South Africa for violence against Negroes has been rebroadcast all over Africa... Russia is now mass-producing automobiles — not for Russians, but Americans. Russia expects to sell over 10,000 small Moskvich cars right here in the United States during the next 18 months—at reported giveaway prices... White House aides have warned Ike to use his veto sparingly hereafter before the public gets this idea ne is too negative. He has agreed to approve lesser bills, even though he may disagree with them. For example, he has promised to sign a bill which would require the federal government to pay municipalities and counties fees in lieu of taxes... Ike was understandably furious over the way the program dragged at the recent Republican jumbo jamboree. The speeches were inexcusably long, keeping him up late.

The Pilot - Conclusion

At 3:45 p. m. the co-pilot calls Eastern Air Lines. "325 calling," he says. "We were out at thirty, off at forty." The company repeats the message. The Center calls in to order 325 to start climbing at Point Pleasant N. J. to 14,000 feet. Captain Young looks out the side window, aft, then forward.

He sees beaches and green curling breakers. The co-pilot snaps off the No Smoking sign. The Center calls in 325's position, even though 325 knows where it is. "You are passing Point Pleasant." "You are passing Beechwood." The captain listens to his co-pilot and what his co-pilot is saying to the Center, while studying a panel of many instruments and keeping in touch with the engineer behind him.

The Electra is cruising at 410 miles per hour. It moves softly, without strain. The time is 3:52 p. m. Young turns to a compass heading of 248 for Coyle, near Lakehurst, N. J. He sets up cruise power for the engines, starts down his Cruise checklist with engineer and co-pilot. The engineer reads it aloud.

Jack Young turns on the automatic pilot. At Coyle, the time is 4:02 and the plane turns toward Dover, Delaware. If the captain must wash his hands, now is the time. He has a few minutes with nothing to do but look out the window and hope that no other pilot will reach out to shake hands as he goes by.

At 4:15 p. m. the Electra is over Dover and turns two degrees right toward a little town called Price, Md. Five minutes later the plane is 50 miles east of Baltimore, over Price. The co-pilot calls Washington Center as the plane fades from New York control. The man in Washington has a couple of hundred planes on the radar scope and he says he has 325 in view, but, to make sure, will 325 make a 60-degree right turn, hold it for ten seconds, then return to course?

325 will. Now Washington is sure of its identification. The man says: "Eastern 325. Start descent to 6,000 feet. Report leaving 14,000 and 8,000 on your way." Young brings the big girl down at 1,000 feet a minute. The passengers notice nothing.

Washington calls in at 4:27 and says: "Eastern 325. You are passing Shadyside marker. Continue descent to 3,500 feet and report passing Shadyside omni." They so report.

Young calls for his In Range checklist. The engineer begins to read the items. The pilot and co-pilot respond. The co-pilot calls the company in Washington, and gives 325's position.

The company gives 325 an altimeter setting so that, when the plane lands, one should read zero, the other should give the altitude of Washington International Airport from the sea. Young speaks into his microphone: "We have 9,000 pounds of fuel aboard," he says. "We'll take 22,000 pounds out." Eastern orders a truck to be waiting with 13,000 pounds of kerosene.

At 4:29 p. m. the Center calls: "Change to approach control." The co-pilot switches over, tells Approach Control his position. A. C. tells him to leave Andrews Air Force Base on a heading of 270. Four minutes later, 325 passes Andrews. Approach Control orders 325 to drop to 1,500 feet. Young reduces his speed to 150 knots. The wing flaps come down to give additional lift at low speeds. The cockpit becomes busier. At 4:35, Approach Control orders a heading of 330. "On this heading," the voice says, "intercept the localizer."

This is the Instrument Landing System. At 4:36 p. m. the voice says: "Eastern 325. You are 2 miles south of the outer marker. Change over to Tower frequency." At 4:37, Young advises the Washington tower that he is passing the outer marker. He calls "Gear down" and turns a thumb to the co-pilot.

He calls "Final check." The engineer begins to read the list, which includes the turning on of the Fasten Seat Belts sign. The Tower calls: "Eastern 325. You're number one cleared to land on runway 36." This means that the Electra is next to land, and will find the runway on a heading of 360 degrees.

At 4:39 p. m. the flaps are lowered to full landing position. Speed is down to 117 knots. Captain Young takes a last look at his panel of instruments, and touches the plane down. The Tower advises him where to turn off. The co-pilot calls the company for the proper gate number. As the ship turns, Young starts the Landing Checklist.

When he parks the plane, he shuts down engines and starts the Securing Checklist. He has made the first easy leg of a long day's work. Young and his co-pilot go inside and start the whole business all over again for the next leg.

There must be an easier way of making $19,700...

Bi-State Pony League Will Operate With Seven Teams

County Loop To Open 7th Race June 1

Managers Chosen, Each Team To Play Total Of 18 Games

The Bi-State Pony Baseball League will operate with seven teams when it opens its seventh season on Wednesday, June 1, it was announced yesterday following a meeting at Frostburg.

In the lid-lifters, Corriganville will play the Little Moes at Frostburg, Cresaptown will host Westernport and the Frostburg Mounties will visit Mt. Savage. Lonaconing drew a bye on the first day of the season.

Each team will play a schedule of 18 games and the regular schedule will be concluded on August 18 after which the four top teams will participate in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Managers of the teams for the coming campaign will be Bob Goldsworthy, Frostburg Little Moes; George Holler, Corriganville; Dale Broadwater, Cresaptown; Marvin Miller, Westernport; Grover Green, Mt. Savage; Charles Ware, Midlothian; and Bill Fazenbaker, Lonaconing. Goldsworthy, Green and Broadwater managed the same teams in the league last season.

After the first week of the season the games will be staged on Monday and Friday.

The teams finished the season in the following order last year:

1. Frostburg Little Moes 17-3. 2. Mt. Savage 12-8. 3. Ellerslie 11-9. 4. Lonaconing 8-12. 5. Cresaptown 7-13. 6. LaVale 5-15.

Winners in past years were: 1959 — Frostburg won pennant and playoffs. 1958 — Frostburg won pennant and playoffs. 1957 — Ellerslie won pennant and playoffs. 1956 — Cresaptown won pennant; Mt. Savage won playoffs. 1955 — Barton won pennant; Piedmont won playoffs. 1954 — Mt. Savage won pennant and playoffs.

The next meeting of the league will be held Wednesday, May 18 at 8 p. m., in Frostburg City Hall.

Ginsberg Placed On Waiver List

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Catcher Joe Ginsberg of the Baltimore Orioles popped up on the American League waiver list Sunday, and the veteran said he would retire unless claimed by a major league club.

Ginsberg, 33, joined the Orioles in 1956 and has been the club's No. 2 catcher behind Gus Triandos. He played for Kansas City and Cleveland after being brought up to the American League by Detroit in 1948 and catching three years for the Tigers.

Since last season the Orioles have picked up two other catchers in trades, Gene Green from the St. Louis Cardinals and Clint Courtney from the Washington Senators.

Ginsberg, after hitting .274 in 85 games in 1958, batted .211 in 61 games last season.

Donald Lowery Gets Tryout With Elmira

ELLERSLIE—Donald Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Lowery has been with the Philadelphia Phillies Elmira, N. Y., farm club for a tryout at Leesburg, Fla., the past two weeks.

Lowery, a second baseman, was signed last year by the Phillies. He is one of 125 players being looked over with the Phils expecting to retain 60 of the candidates.

Don Lowery, 18, was one of the sparkplugs of last year's ACL, champion Mt. Savage baseball team.

Jerry West Wins

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Jerry West, a shy youth who gained All-America fame as a basketball player at West Virginia University, was married to Martha Jane Kane of Weston here Sunday.

Willie Akers of Mullens, a teammate of West's on the 1959 - 60 team, serves as best man at the ceremonies held at a Catholic Church.

West, a member of the U. S. Olympic basketball team, said he would like to spend his honeymoon in Rome next summer.

Old Home Week

It will be "old home week" when Cincinnati comes in to start the 1960 home season with the Pirates on Thursday the 14th. There are four ex-Pirates in Cincinnati uniforms and four ex-Reds in Pirate flannels. South paw pitchers Don Gross and Harvey Haddix are ex-Reds as are three basemen Don Hoak and catcher Smokey Burgess. Pitcher Bob Purkey is a former Buc as are outfielders Gus Bell, Jerry Lynch and Lee Walls.

Single By Burgess Wins Game In Ninth

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their exhibition schedule with a ninth inning victory over Kansas City Sunday, winning 3-2, for a 15-10 spring record.

Don Hoak started the winning rally against Ned Garver, who went the route for the Athletics, with a single. A sacrifice put him on second and he went to third on a fly ball. Smokey Burgess, swinging for winning pitcher Roy Face, blooped a single to center to end the game.

Bill Virdon hit a homer for the Pirates in the seventh to tie the game. Kansas City was held to five hits by George Witt and Face.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, getting five doubles among their 13 hits, closed out their exhibition base-ball season Sunday with an 8-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants before 10,139 at Edmond's Field.

The ground rule double was in effect and several hundred fans lined the right field fence.

For the Giants Eddie Bressoud hit his sixth homer of the spring and catcher Bob Schmidt hit first. Bressoud's came off Larry Sherry, Dodgers' World Series hero.

Manager Bill Rigney used three of his second string pitchers for the final game — Georges Maranda, Joe Shipley and Ramon Monzant.

The Dodgers got to Maranda for two runs, Shipley for four and Monzant for the final two.

San Francisco . . . 001 200 100-4 7 3 Los Angeles . . . 011 202 110-8 13 0 Maranda, Shipley (4) and Monzant (7) and Schmidt; L. Sherry, McDevitt (4), Craig (7) and Roseboro, N. Sherry (6), W-McDevitt, L-Schmidt. Home runs—San Francisco, Bressoud, Schmidt.

Umpires Assigned For College Games

Umpires have been assigned for college baseball games this week, as follows:

Tuesday — Frostburg State at Potomac State — Howard Northcraft and Blaine McKenzie.

Wednesday — Mount Union (Ohio) at Frostburg State — George Geatz and "Chick" Snider.

WVU Stars Win

ST. ALBANS, W. Va. (UPI)—Jerry West tossed in 41 points Saturday night to spark a group of former West Virginia University stars to a 105-94 victory over the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Stars in the finals of the St. Albans Sportsman's Basketball Tournament.

West, who scored 107 points in the three games, was named as the tournament's most valuable player and also to the all-tournament team.

Betsy Rawls Grabs Title

Cops Zaharias Open With 54-Hole 211

BEAUMONT, Tex., (UPI)—Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C. stroked an even - par 73 Sunday for a 54-hole eight-under par 211 to repeat as champion of the eighth annual $6,500 Babe Zaharias Women's Open.

Miss Rawls earned a check for $1,083 as she fought off a spirited challenge by Fay Crocker of Wichita, Kan., in the final round.

Miss Crocker, who had the day's best round, a three-under-par 70, finished two strokes off the pace at 213.

It was the first tournament victory of the year for Miss Rawls, leader throughout the three-day classic at the Beaumont Country Club.

Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., and Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga. tied for third place at 215. Mary Lena Faulk, of Thomasville, Ga. followed at 216.

Pirates Edge Athletics, 3-2

Single By Burgess Wins Game In Ninth

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their exhibition schedule with a ninth inning victory over Kansas City Sunday, winning 3-2, for a 15-10 spring record.

Don Hoak started the winning rally against Ned Garver, who went the route for the Athletics, with a single. A sacrifice put him on second and he went to third on a fly ball. Smokey Burgess, swinging for winning pitcher Roy Face, blooped a single to center to end the game.

Bill Virdon hit a homer for the Pirates in the seventh to tie the game. Kansas City was held to five hits by George Witt and Face.

Kansas City . . . 110 000 000-2 5 0 Pittsburgh . . . 100 000 101-3 9 0 Garver and P. Dales, Witt, Face (8) and R. Smith, Winner—Face. HR—Virdon.

Senators Nose Out Detroit In Ninth

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Julio Becquer doubled for the winning run in the ninth inning Sunday as the Washington Senators edged the Detroit Tigers, 5-4 to clinch the spring exhibition series between the two teams.

Becquer's blow, his only hit of the game, scored Jim Lemon, who had opened the inning with a walk off rookie righthander Bob Bruce.

The Tigers threatened against submariner Dick Hyde in the bottom of the ninth but the rally fell short.

Southpaw Jim Kaat hurled the first seven innings for the Senators.

Washington . . . 010 001 201-5 9 2 Detroit . . . 001 000 120-4 10 0 Kaat, Hyde (8) and Naragon, Buning, Bruce (8) and Wilson, Winner—Hyde, Loser—Bruce. HR—Doback, Naragon.

Sets Dux Record

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Ethel Dize of Baltimore set a new nine-game world record for women with a score of 1,259 and took the lead in women's all - events competition here Sunday as the National Duckpin Bowling Congress Tournament ended its third weekend.

Miss Dize, 41-year-old bank employee, rolled a three-game total of 386 in doubles competition Saturday, then added a 432 in singles and a 429 with her team, Aristocrat Dairy of Baltimore, for her record total.

The previous record of 1,231 had been set in 1949 by Maxine Allen of Greensboro, N.C., in the 19th NDBC tournament at Norfolk.

Musial Belts Ball, Cards Top Cubs, 5-2

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Veteran Stan Musial cracked out three hits and led the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-2 win over the Chicago Cubs Sunday as both squads wound up their exhibition schedules.

Musial, 39, played five innings at first base and got a triple and two singles.

Card right hander Ernie Broglio walked six and struck out but four, but stayed out of serious trouble in allowing the Cubs only one run on five hits in his seven-inning stint.

St. Louis . . . 010 200 011-3 14 1 Chicago . . . 010 000 010-2 8 1 Broglio, Gibson (8) and H. Smith, Johnson (5), Hobbie, Drott (3), Cecarrelli (8) and S. Taylor, W-Broglio, L-Hobbie.

Peck's Cafe of Frostburg and the Purple Heart Club tonight will play the first three games of their 6-game series for the championship of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League at 9 o'clock at the Purple Heart Club, Greene Street.

The last three games will be staged Thursday at 9 o'clock at Peck's Cafe.

National Loop Set For First Games Tuesday

Spahn To Oppose Friend; McLish In Reds' Debut

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco and Milwaukee are expected to provide stiff competition for the defending champion Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League pennant race, opening Tuesday, a week ahead of the American League.

Old dependable Robin Roberts is primed to pitch his 11th straight opener for Philadelphia in Cincinnati and Warren Spahn again gets the call for Milwaukee in Pittsburgh.

A handful of rookies and a generous smattering of veterans who have been traded since last season, add spice to the lineups. A check of the 1959 opening day batting orders shows there will be a 40 per cent turnover. However, many of the players who opened for one team last spring will be playing for another. Many who finished last year as regulars did not start last opening day.

For the first time, the major leagues will have split openers. The National added an extra week to ease its travel and scheduling problems. The American refused to budge. Consequently, the American will be playing exhibitions in Florida while the National is playing for keeps. The American won't have a full schedule until Tuesday, April 19 after the usual presidential (without the president) opener in Washington, April 18.

Play In New Park
San Francisco will play for the first time in its new 15 million dollar stadium, Candlestick Park, which almost had to be rushed into service last fall before it was completed. The Giants' flop saved the day. Solly Hemus' stop

Louis Cardinals will do their best to spoil the Giants' big day. Los Angeles will begin defense of the championship it won so dramatically last year by taking on the Chicago Cubs in a night game at the Coliseum which must serve as the Dodgers' home field for at least one more year. Milwaukee bows in at home against Pittsburgh. Cincinnati, as usual, draws a Crosley Field opener with the Phillies as the opposition.

Dodgers Expect 50,000
If the weatherman is kind—and he should be in Los Angeles and San Francisco—the crowd should total over 165,000, a league record. The Dodgers probably will have the largest turnout, about 50,000, for their first home opener in Los Angeles. Milwaukee expects 3,000 and the Giants will pack their new park to its capacity of 42,549. Cincinnati will have its usual turnout, some 31,000 strong.

Roberts (15-17) is an opening day fixture. He has been starting every year since 1950. In that period he has won five, lost four and had no decision in the other game.

McLish May Start
Cincinnati may show its most important addition, Cal McLish (19-4 at Cleveland) in the opener. Los Angeles comes up to the starting line with the same lineup that won the World Series.

Charlie Grimm, returning for another term as manager of the Cubs, has tightened up his infield with Don Zimmer from the Dodgers and has picked up Frank Thomas from Cincinnati and Richie Ashburn from Philadelphia to strengthen his outfield.

The Giants, picked by a majority of the baseball writers to win the pennant, have added Don Blasingame at second base, Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes to their pitching staff and Dale Long and Jim Marshall to their bench.

The Cardinals have made several changes. The most important switches find Daryl Spencer, former Giant, at shortstop and Alex Grammas at second base.

Spahn vs. Friend
Chuck Dressen, starting his first season as Milwaukee manager, has picked Spahn (21-15), a familiar face, to get him off on the right foot against Pittsburgh's Bob Friend (8-19). The Braves did no trading in the off season.

Pittsburgh also made few changes, picking up two catchers, Hal Smith and Bob Oldis and an outfielder, Gino Cimoli.

Frostburg-Shepherd Divide Double Bill
Frostburg State Teachers College split a twin bill with Shepherd College Saturday at Shepherdstown, winning the first game, 6-3, and losing the nightcap, 7-0.

Bobby Dawson limited the Rams to four hits in the 7-inning first game in which the Bobcats scored six runs in the opening frame.

Walter Barr, of Berryville, Va., limited Frostburg to one blow in the five-inning second game, a single by Nash. George Kuhn was the losing pitcher.

The Alderson-Broadus College-Potomac State twin bill set for Keyser on Saturday was postponed.

Mike Nixon To Be Speaker At LaSalle Awards Dinner

Redskins' Coach Coming Here For Affair April 28

Mike Nixon, head coach of the Washington Redskins of the National Football League, will be the guest speaker at the annual Awards Dinner of LaSalle High School to be held Thursday, April 28, at 6 p.m., at St. Peter & Paul Hall.

The 1959 season was Nixon's 21st in coaching. He has spent 16 seasons in the N.F.L., two as player, 13 as assistant coach and one year as head coach. He took over the Redskins for the 1959 season after Joe Kuharich moved on to Notre Dame University.

Nixon was born at Masontown, Pa., Nov. 21, 1911, and played a halfback position at the University of Pittsburgh in 1932, 1933 and 1934. In his senior year with the Panthers he was an All-America selection.

Mike played baseball in the Southern Association, served as a Pennsylvania State Senator and as a coal miners' union leader.

As backfield coach under Dr. John Bain "Jack" Sutherland at Pitt, Nixon fielded one of the greatest offensive units of all time — Goldberg, Cassiano, Siebkins and Chickerno.

Here's Nixon's coaching chronology:

1936-39 — Pittsburgh backfield coach.

1940 — West Virginia backfield coach.

1941-42 — Player-coach, Brooklyn Dodgers.

1943-45 — Lieutenant, U. S. Navy.

1946-51 — Steelers assistant coach.

1952 — Cardinals' backfield coach.

1953 — Steelers assistant coach.

1954-58 — Redskins' backfield coach.

1959 — Redskins' head coach.

Orioles Trim Phillies, 5-0

Estrada, Coleman Twirl Four-Hitter

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Rookie Chuck Estrada and veteran Rip Coleman combined for a five hit shutout Sunday to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was Baltimore's 14th victory in 26 Grapefruit League games. The Phils now are 9-12.

Estrada, 22-year-old yearling expected to become an Oriole regular this year, hurled the first five frames and allowed only four hits and fanned six. He walked one.

Coleman followed with a one-hit job for the remaining four frames but had to pitch his way out of a bases loaded, no out situation in the seventh, brought on by his own wildness. He walked four.

Philadelphia . . . 000 000 000-0 5 1 Baltimore . . . 100 001 000-5 8 0 Burnhardt, Cardwell (5), Farrell (7) and Coker, Thomas (7), Estrada, Coleman (6) and Triandos, Winner—Estrada, Loser—Burnhardt.

Fort Ashby Vets Cop Third Place

Fort Ashby's Veterans of Foreign Wars won the playoff series for third place in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by defeating Fisher & Robinette yesterday at Fort Ashby by the margin of 15 points in the last three games of the six-game set.

The score of yesterday's match was 68-53 and gave Fort Ashby the series by the margin of a single point, 146 to 145.

Keith Alt and Jack Welch headed Fort Ashby with scores of 17 each. Fritz Palmer paced Fisher & Robinette with 20 tallies.

Banks Is Injured, Hit On Nose By Ball

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Ernie Banks, the National League's most valuable player, missed the final game of the exhibition schedule here Sunday after being struck on the nose by a ball during a pepper game.

Banks, who was hitting a lousy 472 this spring, was not seriously injured but the nose bled profusely. He was expected to be able to play in the season's opener in Los Angeles Tuesday night.

College Boxer Fights For Life After Surgery

Charles Mohr, 22, Has Brain Injury

By DAVE O'HARA

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A 22-year-old University of Wisconsin boxer battled for his life Sunday after undergoing extensive surgery for a brain injury suffered in a vain bid to defend his national collegiate championship.

Charles Mohr of Merrick, N. Y., one of the nation's top college boxers, was in critical condition but "holding his own" at University Hospital. Doctors would not even hazard a guess at his chances of survival.

Mohr collapsed from a brain and are expected to choose from hemorrhage after losing to Stu among Jackie Moreland, a small Bartell of San Jose (Calif.) State Saturday night in the 165-pound title bout of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., tournament. Bartell's victory enabled San Jose State to edge Wisconsin for the team prize in the 23rd annual championships.

Sisters See Bout
Among Mohr's many fans in the crowd of more than 10,000 were two sisters, Carole and Joan. They hurried to the hospital with their brother. Carole collapsed from the ordeal and was placed under sedation. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mohr, flew to Madison from New York.

Arnold Palmer's Blazing Finish Wins Masters Golf Title

Pennsy Pro's 282 Noses Out Ken Venturi

Birdies Last Two Holes; One Stroke Win Worth $17,500

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer pulled his scrambling game together just in time Sunday to birdie the last two holes and win his second Masters golf championship by a stroke over Ken Venturi.

Venturi already was in the clubhouse accepting congratulations as the winner when Palmer electrified a crowd of 30,000 by running down a 30-footer on the 17th for the birdie that put him in a tie and then ramming home a climactic six-footer on the 18th that gave him the title.

Palmer's spectacular finish gave him a two under-par 70 and a 282 total, two strokes better than the 284 that won him his first Masters in 1958 and also won for Art Wall Jr., last year.

Those last two birdies by the husky, 30-year-old Palmer were reminiscent of the down-the-wire finish staged last year by Wall, who came on to win by birdying five of the last six holes.

Arnold Palmer

Finsterwald Disappointed

Palmer's victory came not only as a shock to Venturi, who fired a 70 to wind up with 283 that was good for second place, but as a distinct disappointment to Dow Finsterwald, who had a 71 and a third place 284. Finsterwald would have wound up in a tie with Palmer had he not called a two-stroke penalty on himself for taking an unthinking practice putt on the fifth hole of the first round.

Led Every Round

Like the true golfing thoroughbred he is, Palmer led from wire to wire, making him only the second man in Masters' history to be in front at the end of all four rounds. Craig Wood did the same in winning the 1941 championship.

Palmer started the day one stroke in front of five competitors — Ben Hogan, Julius Boros, Billy Casper, Finsterwald and Venturi. All but Finsterwald and Venturi fell back in fairly short order. Casper shooting a 74 that earned him fourth place with 287, Boros a 75 for a fifth place 288 and Hogan a 76 that put him in a sixth place tie at 289 with little Gary Player of South Africa and Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich.

Snead Beset With Trouble

Sammy Snead, beset with headaches over a thrown TV match throughout the entire tournament, came in with a 73 that gave him a 292 along with Jackie Burke, who shot a 74.

Palmer certainly didn't look like a winner when he began Sunday's round over Augusta National's 6,980-yard course.

He bogeyed two holes on the front nine as well as birdying two for a 36 and was even with par through the first seven holes of the back nine until he came up with those two clutch birdies.

Venturi, meanwhile, seemed well on his way to wiping out the bitter memory of his 1956 final round here when, as an amateur, he soared to 80 and watched Burke come from eight strokes behind to take the championship away from him.

Venturi birdied the second, third and sixth holes for a three-under-par 33 going out and then came back in 37. That looked good enough to win for him and his attractive, blonde wife, Connie, even obliged photographers by kissing her "triumphant" husband, but they were reckoning without that fabulous finish by Palmer.

Putter Behaves

Palmer's putter, which he had threatened to throw away after it failed him Saturday, behaved far better Sunday. He took only 29 putts even though he three-putted the par four 450-yard fifth for a bogey.

The muscular, 30-year-old Lionger, Pa., pro had the shots when he needed them, however.

He got into trouble immediately on the par four 400-yard first hole when he hooked his tee shot into the adjoining ninth fairway.

But he promptly bailed himself out with a spectacular two-iron shot that left him only 12 feet away from the pin from where he got down for a bird.

On the par four 355 yard third, he was short with his second shot, then chipped short again and took two putts for a bogey and he

Fleck, Bayer Set Masters Record

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Jack Fleck and big George Bayer set a new record for the Augusta National Golf course Sunday when they played the final round in the Masters Golf Tournament in one hour and 52 minutes.

The record had been held by Gene Sarazen and George Fazio, who played the final round in 1947 in one hour and 57 minutes.

Bayer shot an even par 72 which gave him a total of 298. Fleck shot a 74 for an even 300.

Manages Jinx Hole

Palmer carded his second birdie on the par five 530 yard eighth, chipping to within four feet and getting down with one putt. He successfully managed his "jinx hole," the 12th, with a par and then played par golf until the 17th.

The victory was worth $17,500 to Palmer and gave him a total of $44,200 in money winnings so far this year. Venturi's disappointment was mollified somewhat by a second place purse of $10,500 while Finsterwald received $7,000 for finishing third.

Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, led the amateur contingent with identical 293 totals. Patton fired a 72 and Nicklaus a 75.

By FRANK WATSON

Central Press Sports Writer

The average fan will focus his attention on a baseball when the National league opens April 12 and the President of the United States tosses out that first ball for the American league opener a week later.

Or, this same fan may talk about a baseball if there's an argument about whether a "rabbit" is hiding inside the baseballs used by the major leagues.

Of course, anyone who gets an autographed baseball will take a close look at it.

But, how many fans know the "inside" story of a baseball?

What kind of mud is used by American league umpires to rub the gloss from a shiny new ball?

Does the American league use a livelier baseball than the National league?

How many baseballs are needed by a major league club to finish a season?

What is a baseball made of?

Before a game starts, the umpires rub the gloss off new balls. That's because the players would do it anyway, so this saves some game time. American league umpires use a dirt-and-water compound for the job. They carry jars of mud reputedly scooped by divers from the bottom of the Delaware river.

Use Same Baseball

Both leagues use the same baseball. The A. G. Spalding & Bros. company makes the balls for the majors. The American league uses the "Reach" ball while the National takes the "Spalding" baseball. The only difference between them is the printing on the cover.

Ball clubs require anywhere from 600 to 800 dozen baseballs for a season's play. From 30 to 50 baseballs—or about three to five an inning—are used in a nine-inning game. A baseball, incidentally, costs $2.99-$3.25 list price.

Use Lighter Ball

In the early days, the ball weighed 6½ ounces and measured 10½ inches around, but to day the official ball must be not less than 5 ounces nor more than 5¼ ounces in weight and must be from 9 to 9¼ inches in circumference.

The first baseballs were all tightly-wound yarn. A large center of rubber was added for distance. Now the ball contains a cushion cork center. Before this standardization process, the home team had its choice of whether it wanted a so-called "dead" ball or a "live" one.

Cork Is Imported

The cork for the balls is said to come from Spain or Portugal. It takes more than 100 hand-stitched double stitches for the cover, so a player can hardly "knock the cover" off the ball.

The cork pellet is covered with halves of black rubber and a red rubber ring is placed between the halves.

There is enough yarn in one baseball to go from home plate to second base eight a one-half times. A-baseball uses about 121 yards of gray wool, 33 yards of fine gray wool, 45 yards of white wool, 150 yards of white cotton, coatings of rubber cement and the horsehide.

The baseballs used by both leagues are made and tested under strict control qualifications. The temperature and humidity in the plant is kept uniform so that moisture or heat won't affect the official standards of weight, shape and size.

That's the "inside" story of baseball.

Suffolk Downs race track near Boston has stable accommodations for 1,214 horses.

Two Champions Ward Scores Retain Titles At Trenton

Liguori Injured In 100-Mile Race

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Indianapolis winner Roger Ward led from start to finish Sunday and won an accident-marked 100-mile auto race at Trenton Speedway.

Ralph Liguori, 33, of Tampa, Fla., suffered a broken left shoulder when his Indianapolis-type racer blew a tire on the 63rd lap and overturned.

"I'm finished with racing. I'm going out and get a job," said Liguori to a doctor at Helene Fuld Hospital where he was taken.

The hospital said the driver was in fair condition.

Ward, winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race last year, won Sunday in 1 hour 2 minutes and 50.18 seconds, an average speed of 95.436 miles an hour. Ward, of Indianapolis, earned about $4,000.

The race twice was slowed by accidents. The yellow caution light was on for several minutes after Liguori's mishap on the 63rd lap. The light also flashed on the 40th lap when Gene Hartley of Indianapolis skidded on the back stretch of the mile track. He was unhurt.

Potomac State College's New Concert Band Makes Appearance Tonight

Potomac State's newly-organized concert band will make its first appearance before the student body, faculty and public today when the 35-piece group presents its spring concert. Under the direction of Philip J. Faini, the college's first full-time director of instrumental music in several years, the concert will take place in the college auditorium, beginning at 8:15 p. m. There will be no admission charge. The group, which rehearses twice weekly, will present a varied program for music lovers, ranging from classical to popular numbers. "March of the Steel Men," by Charles Belsterling, featuring the brass section, will open the concert. The reed sections will be featured in J. S. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," followed by Mozart's "Alleluia" from the "Exsultate Jubilate" motet. The concert band will then play Richard Strauss' finale from "Death and Transfiguration," followed by a Spanish number, "Amparito Roca," by Jaime Texidor. A contemporary work, "Chorale and Alleluia," by Pulitzer Prizewinner Howard Hanson, will be one of the more difficult numbers the group will present. "Arioso," by Clifton Williams, and the popular "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by John Philip Sousa will precede "Interlude for Band," a number written by Mr. Faini while he was a student at West Virginia University. This composition was premiered by the West Virginia University Concert Band. The program will close with a medley of popular numbers from "My Fair Lady," composed by Lerner, Loewe, and Bennett.

Free-Riders Halt Success Of UHF-TV

FROSTBURG — Mayor Joseph James said Sunday that women soliciting funds for Frostburg Television, Inc., have been meeting with little success. The mayor pointed out that only a small part of the persons in Frostburg enjoying the near perfect rebroadcast of regular television over the UHF are willing to bear a share of the cost. At the present time Mayor James says Channel 5 is off the air due to the fact that no funds are available for replacement of certain parts.

Money would be on hand for general repair and upkeep if those using the UHF rebroadcast would make their contributions, he said.

Although the supply parts have been costing money, volunteer labor has been doing the installing. Not one person has been paid, Mayor James said.

If every viewer would carry a fair share of the load the cost would be nominal for future years, possibly a dollar or two from each user, the mayor noted.

Palace Theatre MON. - TUES. 2 SHOWINGS: 7 & 9

PENNY NITE: WED

Donald Baker presided as chairman of the finance committee and Senator Ralph J. Bean acted as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Carl Welton, chairman of the library welcomed the assembled. Mrs. C. B. Allen, vice chairman of the library spoke on the operation and the need for a larger operating budget. Mrs. Allen explained that in servicing six schools maintaining three branches, and operating seven deposit stations in the county with all the attendant records is too much for volunteer workers to accomplish. Mrs. Allen said the scope of the service of the Hardy County Public Library had reached the point where a full-time worker is necessary.

The plan to raise an additional $2000 annually, adopted by the committee, consists of securing 100 citizens in the county to contribute $1 or more per month and to raise the balance from business firms who will be asked to contribute from $2 to $5 per month.

Soliciting committees were set up for the Capon District area, Lost River District area, Old Fields section, South Fork District area, Bean Settlement area, the Town of Moorefield and the various womens groups and men's civic groups in the county.

The permanent budget adopted totals $4220 annually and will be met from appropriations from the County Court, the Towns of Moorefield and Wardsville, and the Hardy County Board of Education. Additional funds will be received from the Endowment Fund, from fines and rentals, from Memorial books and from donations from the public.

The committee to meet with the four leaving bodies includes R. S. Dispanet, chairman, H. Gus Muntzing, R. M. Gamble and Mrs. C. B. Allen.

The group was entertained by the ladies from the Baker Farm Women's Club with a skit written by Mrs. Arthur J. Halterman which won the prize at the state meeting of the Farm Women's clubs. The food was prepared by the ladies of the Duffey Memorial Methodist Church and was served at the library building.

The beginning of the drive this week coincides with National Library Week and will end on April 15.

Piedmont Legion Plans Anniversary

PIEDMONT — Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion, will hold its annual birthday party April 28 at 8 p. m. in the Legion Home.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It was it here to go back where he came most unbecomingly to chop from. I wish you'd make me the down the writer who signed him same offer—and buy me a ticket. self Gentleman Observer. He cri-I'd grab the chance.

—SICK OF EVERYONE.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Buy your own ticket. Just because you made a poor selection is no reason to be mad at the entire country. You could have made a bum choice over there, too, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I came to America with one suit of clothes and $11 in my pocket. I was under-nourished and my nerves were shot because I had spent 10 months hiding from storm troopers. My parents and I were killed before my very eyes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Well—another country heard from!! America gave me hope, strength and a chance to stand up and hold my head high. I hope you will forgive the ignorance of the man who signed himself Gentleman Observer. Not all adopted sons and daughters are boorish and ungrateful. We are ashamed of this type, who bites the hand that feeds him.

—PROUD CITIZEN

DEAR ANN: Of all the stupid chauvinistic answers—yours was the prize. Why don't you read "The Ugly American?" I'll bet you wouldn't tell Einstein or Werner von Braun that planes and ships leave every day. How would you dumbbells compete with the Russians?

—INER NOS.
DEAR ANN: I dig America the most. Where else in the world could a haberdasher become President?

—N.Y.U. STUDENT

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so angry at "Gentleman Observer" I can hardly write. I came to America 40 months ago. When I landed on your shores I got on my knees and kissed the soil. I feel like shouting from the house tops that this is a marvelous, new, exciting country and I am privileged and honored to be among you.

—NU SUN KEE
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Hooray for Gentleman Observer and phooey to you! I came to this crummy country 14 years ago. I didn't come here to escape tyranny or persecution either. I was perfectly happy where I was. Too bad I didn't have the sense to stay there.

I was one of those silly girls who fell for the cheap line of an American soldier. You told Gentleman Observer if he didn't like

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ A K W J 8 6 ♦ Q 4 3 ♣ K Q J 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 3 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Four hearts. Although this is a minimum one no trump bid, we do have three trumps for partner and the tenous diamond singleton inclines us toward the immediate raise.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 5 4 ♥ A 6 5 ♦ K J 8 7 5 ♣ A Q
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Though you have a completely sound opening bid, we do not recommend further action even though partner responded at the level of two. In view of his previous pass we would conclude that there must probably be no game and would be satisfied to play for the part score in clubs. A rebid of two diamonds might have the effect of getting us out of the best contract.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ 8 7 5 2 ♥ A K ♦ A K 5 4 2 ♣ 10 4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—A direct raise to three no trump is clearly indicated. You have the equal of an opening bid facing an opening bid, a hand that is suitable to play at no trump containing 14 points.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ J 9 4 ♥ 9 6 4 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ A Q J 8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—It is your duty to return to three diamonds. Partner has designated a strong hand with five diamonds and four spades, and you ought not to feel squeamish about increasing the contract to the three level. It is not your responsibility for partner deliberately placed you in that position. If by chance partner should rebid spades after you return to three diamonds, then you will recognize that he had a five card suit and should proceed to four.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ 8 6 5 4 ♥ 9 7 2 ♦ A 10 8 2 ♣ 9 7
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass Pass 2 ♠
2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Three hearts. As you were unable to keep one heart open, partner's competitive entry indicates possession of a very strong hand and one constructive effort is in order on your meager holding.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ J 7 4 3 ♥ K J 5 ♦ A K J 9 8 ♣ A
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ 4 ♠ 4 ♠ 5 ♠

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Leave the decision to partner. He may be in a better position to decide what to do. Your pass is, of course, absolutely forcing since your side has voluntarily contracted for game and the opponents are obviously "taking a save."

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

Q. 9—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

Q. 10—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

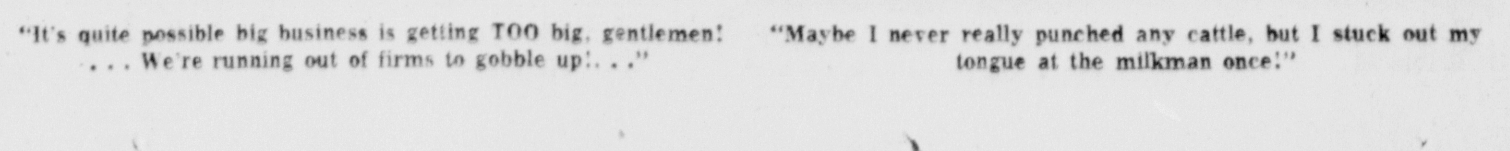

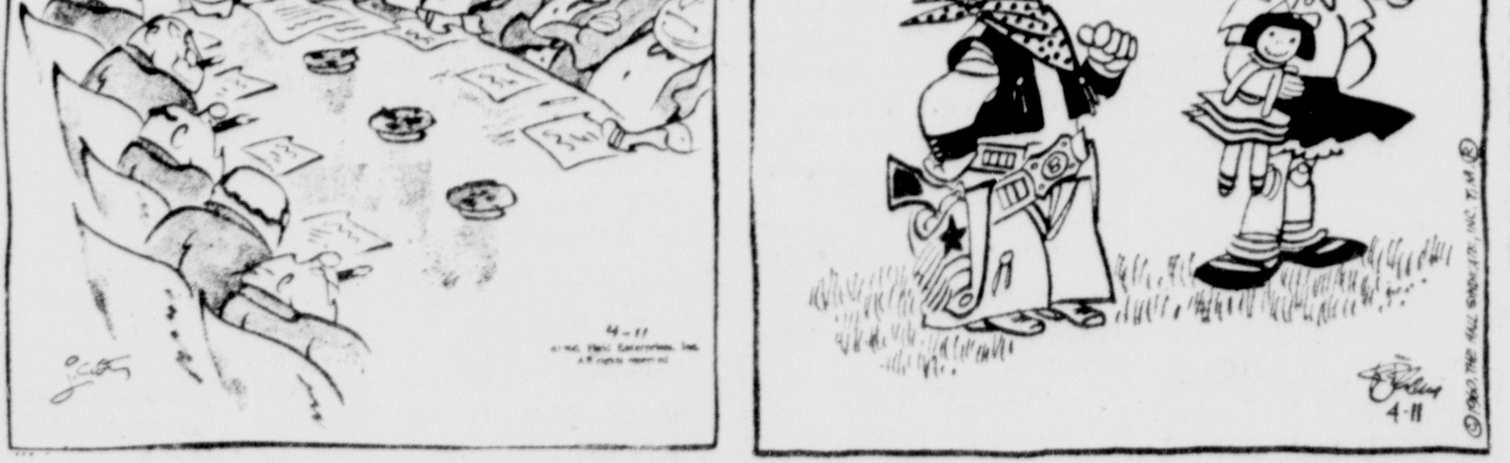

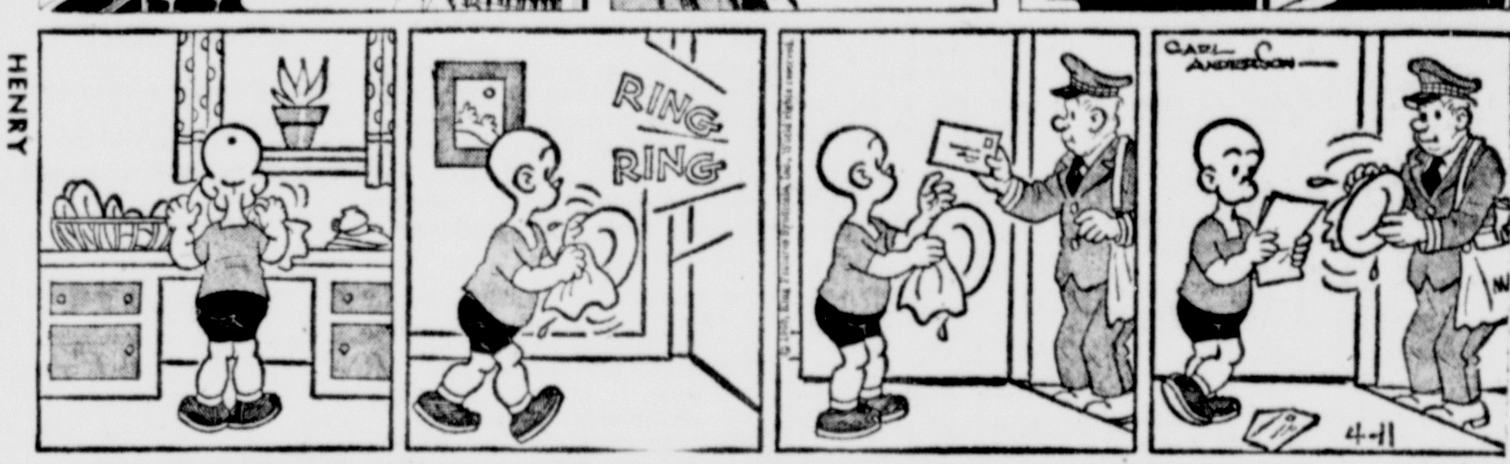

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

Q. 11—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

Q. 12—As South you hold:
♠ A K 5 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 9 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Local stops.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear son James
Finch Boone who died 17 yrs. ago today
(April 11, 1943).
My loved one's gone from me away.
To dwell in Heaven through endless days.

How sad it was to see him go
And leave me here who loved him so.
My home has now a vacant place
A silent voice, an absent face.
I know his smile I'll see no more.
Until I reach that golden shore.
Sadly missed by his mother,
NELLIE

Mine Cave-In Probe To Be Held Today

Officials To Seek Cause Of Accident
Which Killed Three

Federal and state mine officials will conduct a hearing today in Kitzmiller to determine the cause of the cave-in which took the lives of three Garrett County miners Saturday afternoon.

John Dougherty, chief of the northern West Virginia section of the Federal Bureau of Mines, Morgantown, W. Va., and Frank Powers, Frostburg director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, will be in charge of the hearing to be held at the Community Building in Kitzmiller at 1 o'clock. Assisting them will be Harry Jones, Frostburg district supervisor of the Federal Bureau of Mines, and Thomas B. Powell, James Close and Harry Buckley, district mine inspectors.

Killed in the mine were John Leroy Paugh, 50, the owner; his nephew, Charles Leo Paugh, 21, and Allen Ray Harvey, 40, all of Kitzmiller.

Near Mine Entrance

The men were working close to the entrance of the Paugh Coal Mine near Kitzmiller when the sudden cave-in dumped tons of rock and dirt on them. A fourth miner, Lawrence Paugh, 18, son of the mine owner, escaped with minor injuries although trapped by the slide for about 40 minutes. Rescued By Brother

The younger Paugh was rescued by his brother, Marvin Paugh, 21, who saw the accident, and Joseph Harvey, a brother of one of the victims.

Authorities said the men were working the mine which recently had been purchased by Mr. Paugh, preparing it for full operation. Its entrance is just a few yards from that of another pit in which an accident claimed the lives of five men several years ago.

Lawrence Paugh sustained only minor leg injuries and did not require hospitalization although the cave-in caught his legs and pinned him in the mine. His brother, Marvin, was working with the group, but had stepped from the mine only moments before the accident occurred.

Ran For Help

Marvin Paugh attempted to pull his brother free from the debris but was unable to do so. He ran about three-quarters of a mile toward Kitzmiller where he saw Joseph Harvey, and the two freed young Lawrence in about 40 minutes.

The bodies of the other victims were removed from the mine by members of the Kitzmiller Mine Rescue Squad, the last one being recovered about 2½ hours after the cave-in.

The rescue squad, assisted by the volunteer fire company and several other Kitzmiller miners, found two of the bodies near the mine opening and the third about two feet further in the shaft.

The men had been working the mine since early morning and were only a few yards from the opening at the time of the rock fall. The mine tunnel was not very deep as it had been in operation for only a short time.

Dr. James Feaster, deputy county medical examiner for Garrett County, said Harvey died of head injuries, John Paugh had a fractured skull, and Charles Paugh sustained a broken neck and head injuries.

The rescue squad was headed by Carl Schell, president of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. Others in the squad were Chester Evans, James Droleman, Michael Droleman, Carl Paugh, Wilbur Burrell and Fitzhugh Burrell.

The accident is being investigated by Pfc. Donald Tucker, Cpl. Samuel Conrad and Pfc. Robert E. Henline of the State Police, as well as state and federal mine officials.

Services Tomorrow
Funeral services for the three victims will be conducted on Tuesday. Rev. Leroy Imperio, Westernport, and Rev. Virgil Shrader, pastor of Mt. Bethel Methodist Church, will officiate at services at 11 a. m. for Mr. Harvey. The services will be held at the church and interment will be in the IOOF Cemetery, Elk Garden.

Mr. Harvey's body is at his home on Water Street in Kitzmiller. A veteran of World War II, he was born October 20, 1919, near Kitzmiller, a son of Ray and Anna (McVicker) Harvey who survive. He had been a coal miner and woodsman most of his life.

He also is survived by a brother, Joseph Harvey, Kitzmiller; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Weicht, Akron, Ohio; his widow, Mrs. Mary C. (Paugh) Harvey; and six children, ranging in ages from 2 months to 8 years. They are Clarence Edward, Alma Elaine, Mary Louise, Robert Lee, Ruth Ann and William Martin, all at home.

Double Funeral
Final rites for John Leroy Paugh and Charles Leo Paugh will be held at 3 p. m. at the Nethkin Hill Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Shrader and Rev. Mr. Imperio will officiate at this double service also. Interment will be in the IOOF Cemetery, Elk Garden.

John Paugh, was born July 3, 1909, in Elk Garden, a son of Coal Mine near Kitzmiller. Mr. Close is pointing to a shovel handle where one of the men was found. The picture was taken just inside the mine opening.

Where Three Miners Died

Youth Killed In Auto Crash Near Ridgeley

A young Marine Corps veteran was killed instantly Saturday night when the car he was driving struck a rock ledge along West Virginia Route 28 about a mile south of Ridgeley.

Ronald Frederick Simpson, 22, of 111 Main Street, Ridgeley, died when his car apparently rolled over on him. He was thrown from the vehicle after it hit the guard rail.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles C. Oliver said his body was crushed by the machine. The car rolled about 150 feet along the highway and came to rest beside the road.

The state trooper said Simpson was to play in a musical group at The Chateau on Route 28 about six miles south of Ridgeley.

The youth apparently went to Ridgeley to get a replacement for a broken guitar string and the accident occurred shortly after 9 o'clock as he was returning to the road house.

Young Simpson had completed a four-year enlistment in the Marine Corps on February 16. He was born in Cumberland, a son of Frederick M. and Elvia (Martin) Simpson, and he was a member of Grace Baptist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Emma Jean (Mellott) Simpson; a daughter, Rose Marie, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Keister Carr and Mrs. Robert M. Iser, both of Ridgeley; and a grandmother, Mrs. Sophia C. Simpson, Wiley Ford.

The body is at the George Funeral Home.

Schools Sign 1,220 For First Grades

Some 1,220 new first graders for Allegany County's public schools registered in their respective new schools March 31 and April 1, but Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools, figures that many more will be registered before classes start in September.

Last year, for instance, in the two-day early registration, 1,234 youngsters were registered for the first grade. However, when classes started last September, 1,361 first graders were enrolled.

Mr. Higgins emphasized that only slightly more than half of those registered for the first grade have been vaccinated successfully despite the fact that their start in school is less than six months away.

Only 55.1 per cent had been vaccinated and only 71.2 per cent had their birth certificates with them when their parents brought them to school for registration.

No child will be admitted to public schools in September who has not presented his birth certificate to school authorities prior to enrollment nor will any unvaccinated child be allowed in school. The only vaccination exception would be a doctor's certificate that the child has been vaccinated but that it did not "take" or for some other medical reason should not now be required to take a vaccination.

Mr. Higgins suggested that the vaccinations be given soon enough that the children will not be suffering any ill after-effects when school resumes in September.

Boys outnumbered girls in the early registrants. There were 627 boys and only 593 girls.

County's New Planners Take Job Seriously

Allegany County's new planning commission, which has been organized less than two months, already is taking its role seriously.

Four of the five commission members, all except County Commissioner John T. Mason, spent last Thursday in Frederick County profiting from the experiences of that county's planning commission, which was formed in 1955. Visiting in Frederick were Richard Winer, commission president, and Ralph M. Race, James A. Perrin and Alvin H. Ternent.

Mr. Winer explained that they were cordially received by Alfred Cutsail, executive secretary, and Arthur Hatton, planner, for the Frederick County Planning Commission.

The Frederick County planners explained how special services were undertaken with the help of a consulting firm to determine the present and future population of the county, economic statistics and to show the county highway traffic pattern.

With this information, they made two land use maps, one to show existing uses and the second to show projected uses. The advice of many prominent people of the county was received in the development of the projected land use map. Public hearings were held to acquaint the people with the purposes of planning.

Frederick County found that the highway study was beneficial in getting the State Roads Commission in large measure to coordinate its plans for that county with those suggested by the planning commission.

Beth Jacob Will Open Passover

The Jewish Festival of Passover will be ushered in tonight with services by Beth Jacob Congregation in its old building at 418 North Centre Street.

Services will be held at 7 p. m. and will be led by Rabbi Bertram Cohen, assisted by a cantor of the Synagogue.

Tomorrow, services will be held at 7:30 a. m. and at 7 p. m. On Wednesday services will be held at 7:30 a. m.

On Monday and Tuesday evening, special home services called "The Seder" will be held in the homes of the members of the Congregation. These services will, through ritual and scriptural readings commemorate the deliverance of the Israelites from the bondage in Egypt 4,000 years ago.

The drinking of four cups of wine, the eating of the matzah (unleavened bread) and the bitter herbs (horseradish root) highlight this service.

Services for the Passover Sabbath will be held Friday at 8 p. m. and on Saturday at 7:30 a. m. Services for the last two days of Passover are scheduled as follows: Sunday, April 17, 7:30 p. m., Monday, April 18, 7:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., and Tuesday at 8:15 a. m. On that day Yizkor (Memorial) services will be recited at 9 a. m.

All of these services will be held in the old building on North Centre Street. The first service in the new quarters at Columbia and Bedford streets will be held April 29.

Services Listed For Holy Week

Emmanuel Episcopal Church will have daily services during Holy Week, according to Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector.

Model Legislature Winds Up Three-Day Program

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Youths from Western Maryland dominated the Model Legislature which wound up a three-day session here Saturday.

Eric Fable of Cumberland was governor of the mock government. John McIntyre, of Westernport, was speaker of the House, and Lynn Logston of Hagerstown was president of the Senate.

Bill Schildt of Hagerstown, one of two candidates defeated by Fable for governor, served as attorney general.

Registered for the 17th annual event were a record 246 youths from Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in Bethesda - Chevy Chase, Prince Georges County, Anne Arundel County, the Baltimore area, Cumberland, Elkton, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Youth Gov. Fable, an 18-year-old senior at Allegany High School, didn't use his veto power once but said he would have if his Legis-

GEN. JAMES C. FRANK

79th Division Commander To Visit Here

Army Reserve Unit Will Be Inspected

Major General James C. Frank, commanding general of the 79th Infantry Division (Pennsylvania) will visit Cumberland today to confer with officers and inspect personnel of Company D, Third Battle Group of the 34th Infantry, a unit of the division.

Company D, commanded by Captain Forrest J. Boggs, Piedmont, W. Va., is a member unit at the local Army Reserve Center, Walnut Place. Captain Boggs is a teacher at Bruce High School, Westernport.

Colonel F. L. Cawood, senior unit advisor for the Army at the local center, said General Frank will be making his first visit to Cumberland. He will confer with the officers and later make an inspection tour of the center and observe the enlisted personnel who will attend a drill night.

The general's tour is expected to get under way about 6:30 p. m., according to Colonel Cawood, who said he will be accompanied by Colonel Fortin, senior Army advisor for the division.

A resident of Harrisburg, Pa., General Frank was named division commander July 1, 1957.

He completed studies at Pennsylvania State College in 1924; Artillery School, Battery Officer Course No. 2, 1940; Staff and General Staff College, 1941; instructor in Advance Course Tactics, August 1941 to April 1943.

In 1926 he enlisted in Troop C, 104th Cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard, and was discharged as a sergeant in 1928. He re-enlisted in Battery A, 107th Field Artillery of the Pennsylvania National Guard in 1931, assumed command of the battery in 1936, and was promoted from first lieutenant to captain four years later.

Subsequent appointments in the federal service with the 28th Division include lieutenant colonel February 1, 1942 and to colonel July 1, 1944.

He served in the China Theater from July 1945 to October 1945 and was relieved of active duty February 20, 1946. After assisting in reorganizing the 28th Division of the Pennsylvania National Guard in 1946 he was assigned to the 79th Infantry Division, USAR, in 1947 as division artillery commander.

General Frank is an alternate member of the Department of the Army General Staff Committee on Army Reserve Policy.

He is in the insurance business.

The Marylander Award, given to the most outstanding scholastic newspaper, was won by The Glen Burnie of Glen Burnie Senior High School.

The all-day meeting was attended by 967 students from Maryland elementary, junior and senior high schools.

Raymond Gray Plans Appeal For Third Time

Judge Harris Will Reappoint Attorneys

For the third time the Maryland Court of Appeals apparently will be called upon to rule on the conviction of Raymond John Anthony Gray, 36-year-old former Cumberlander, who was sentenced to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentiary for armed robbery by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court for the third time on April 1.

Last week, Gray wrote Judge Harris from the State Penitentiary to explain that he wished to appeal his latest conviction but lacked the necessary funds to pay for his attorneys and the other costs of the appeal.

Judge Harris informed the clerk's office that he will appoint Harold E. Naughton and Earl E. Manges as Gray's attorneys.

Mr. Naughton and Mr. Manges have handled Gray's case since the first trial in October 1958. That was a court trial. At its conclusion, Judge Harris imposed the first 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary and found Gray guilty of armed robbery, the first count in the criminal information upon which he was tried. The Court of Appeals reversed this decision and granted a new trial.

At the second trial, in May 1959, Gray was again found guilty of armed robbery, this time by a jury. A second appeal resulted and for the second time a new trial was granted by the Court of Appeals. On this occasion, the same 10-year sentence had been imposed.

The second reversal resulted in Gray's being brought back to Circuit Court again on March 8. On that occasion, the defendant became ill as the results of the after-effects of an operation performed several weeks earlier.

The next day Gray and his attorneys were back in court. With the agreement of State's Attorney James S. Getty, Gray's attorneys pleaded their client guilty to receiving stolen goods, the second count in the information. After first accepting the plea and reimposing a 10-year sentence, Judge Harris reconsidered. In view of the fact that Gray already had been found not guilty by a jury last May of receiving stolen goods, Judge Harris decided that he could not now plead guilty. That would constitute double jeopardy, he reasoned.

Then came the third trial on April 1. At the conclusion of this latest trial, a jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated only about 30 minutes before finding Gray again guilty of armed robbery of William Cover of Virginia Avenue on Shade's Lane in September 1958.

Membership Drive Planned By Veterans

Plans for a membership drive of Victor Tambolero Post, Catholic War Veterans, were announced yesterday following a meeting in the Knights of Columbus Home.

Peter J. Carpentieri, commander, presided at the meeting attended by James Pizzillo, state commander, and Edward J. Koritzer Jr., second vice commander, both of Baltimore. Members of the Department of Maryland board also attended.

The membership committee will be headed by Earl Humbertson, of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

He will be assisted by John Loebel, of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, and Mr. Carpentieri, for St. Patrick's.

The committee will present a report at a meeting to be called early in May.

Business at that session will also include the election of seven delegates to the state convention to be held June 10-12 in Baltimore.
